Our program is seeking master's and doctoral students to build an interdisciplinary cohort focusing on all aspects of tribal natural resources. The fellowships are for Fall 2023 admission and are supported by the National Needs Graduate and Postgraduate Fellowship Grants Program through the USDA National Institute of Food and Agriculture. While Native American applicants are preferred, we welcome applications from all.

Project faculty include: Brian Aukema, Mae Davenport, Mike Dockry, Mike Kilgore, Joe Knight, Rebecca Montgomery, and Marcella Windmuller-Campione. To learn more about our faculty, visit: https://nrsm.umn.edu/faculty

APPLY ONLINE BY MARCH 3, 2023
VISIT NRSM.UMN.EDU FOR MORE DETAILS

The graduate program in Natural Resources Science and Management is committed to the principle that all persons shall have equal access to its programs and facilities without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, sex, age, marital status, disability, public assistance status, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression.
Our program focuses on equipping students to address natural resources challenges through hands-on research experiences. Our faculty have direct relationships with various tribal governments, as well as national, state, and local agencies.

Visit www.nrsm.umn.edu or e-mail nrsm@umn.edu for more information about our tribal natural resources fellowship program.